Market Review and Outlook

- After a volatile June which saw the PSEi break critical support levels mid-month, the index managed to close relatively flat month-on-month (-0.33%) at 6,411.91. Quarter-on-quarter, the index was down a whopping -7.12%, reversing the strong gains earned in 1st quarter and ending the first half of the year with a -0.59% year-to-date decline.
- Volatility rose from a mixed bag of catalysts as Fed rate cut delays, a weak peso, and an increase in political noise sapped sentiment. The market found more solid footing as bargain hunters picked up oversold names amidst lower inflation expectation from the BSP.
- The PSEi is expected to trade rangebound from 6400-6700 as investors await for stronger catalysts in relation to corporate earnings, central bank rhetoric, and GDP.
- Philippine government bond yields fell by 2 to 10 basis points in June, leading to positive total returns for investors. Sentiment turned positive towards the latter part of the month after the approval of reduction in rice import tariffs which would help keep inflation within target, and the release of a more balanced auction schedule for the 3rd quarter.
- The Portfolio returned -15.06% since end-June 2019, lagging its benchmark (-12.27%) by 279 basis points.
